West Sac to ponder water fluoridation

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

West Sacramento will soon weigh the pros and cons of adding fluoride to the city's water supply.

Mayor pro tem Carolyn Castillo Pierson has asked her colleagues on the city council to hear a presentation on fluoride at tonight's council meeting. Pierson's "day job" is with the state's department of health.

"I also sit as a member of the Salud Clinic Advisory Board," she told the News-Ledger. "We were approached by Dr. Betty Hinton, who is the county health director, and Dr. (Richard), a dentist. The Salud Clinic Advisory Committee then took it on to do some education and some feeling-out of what the community's thoughts were about fluoridating the water."

After some public meetings were held, said Pierson, she is now an advocate of adding fluoride to city water. Backers say it helps produce strong, cavity-resistant tooth enamel, which is a boon to both the young and the old.

"I really believe that fluoridation is hugely beneficial," said Pierson. "It's supported by all the medical and dental associations, and all the reports document it as safe and cost-effective."

A report from the city water department said that not many other cities or counties in the region fluoridate their water (Pierson said that Sacramento County is now tackling the project).

West Sacramento would handle the fluoridation at its treatment plant on Bryte Bend, under the I-80 freeway bridge, where Sacramento River water gets turned into drinking water. If the plan is approved, workers would add enough hydrofluoric acid to the treated water to register about one part per million of fluoride.

About 27 percent of the state's treated water is fluoridated, says the report, and about 66 percent of the nation's is fluoridated.

Retrofitting the Bryte Bend plant to handle fluoridation would cost about $800,000, said the city report, and keeping up the program would cost about $20,000 per year. Private grant money could help pay for the up-front costs of a fluoridation program, said Pierson.

The city report said that dental benefits from fluoridation are not entirely clear, but that the industry does agree that fluoridation produces "operational and regulatory challenges."

"Some communities continue to witness tooth decay averages above the state level with fluoride addition, while others see dramatic decreases," said the report from city water superintendent Dan Mount.

Is Pierson expecting controversy when the council tackles the issue?

"I don't know," she answered. "I'm aware that in other communities, when the issue of fluoridation comes up, there have been groups that have formed in opposition to it. I think you're going to hear a lot of facts on Wednesday regarding the dental health of children in Yolo County – it's quite startling," she said.

Information provided by the Yolo County Health Department to West Sacramento says that 423 West Sacramento children were recently screened for dental problems. Over 30 percent needed "some kind" of dental care, and 12 percent (52 kids) needed urgent dental care. 15 of the kids were "in pain."

The city staff report says that some California cities – including Davis – have "rejected, banned or quit fluoridating over the last 15 years."

Some critics have called fluoride an industrial waste byproduct, according to the information from Yolo County. But it is instead a natural "trace element" liberated from mining. And as a natural trace element, argues the county, it's not a "medicine."

Partners against floods

Governor Arnold Schwarzenneger (at far right) visited Knights Landing in Yolo County last Tuesday to announce the start of levee repair work at 29 "critical" erosion sites, including nine in the county.

"Yolo County has 215 miles of levees," said Sieferman. "State assistance is necessary to adequately maintain and improve our levees. We are grateful Governor Schwarzenegger is drawing attention to our maintenance issues."

The state department of water resources hopes to complete all 29 repair projects by November 1.

Volunteer leaves a final gift for local seniors

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Former West Sacramentan Jennie McNeil gave of herself for 25 years – and after her death, she found a way to give a little more. The longtime senior center volunteer has left a gift of $45,000 from her estate to help build a new West Sacramento Senior Center. The money has now arrived, about three years after Jennie McNeil's death.

"She started volunteering when the senior center was at the Broderick Christian Center, working in the lunch program over 25 years ago," said Jeff El-Bdour, a recreation supervisor for the city. "She helped serve the participants. Then she came over here (to the current center on Cummins Way) with the same Elderly Nutrition Program, and she volunteered every single day for 25 years. She passed away about three years ago after moving away and spending some time in a nursing home."

"This was her life," said El-Bdour. "We'd pick her up from her home in the morning, and she'd work, and then we'd take her home in the afternoon. She had no family – her spirit died a little bit when her son died. She always told us she'd leave everything she had to us, but we kind of forgot about it."

"Jennie" died in her early 90s, said El-Bdour.

What will the $45,000 be used for?

"It's going to be set aside for the senior center and multi-generational facility to be built across from city hall," El-Bdour said. "We're going to name a room after Jennie, and there will be a plaque with her name on it."

That center is still in the planning stages – in conjunction with a proposed city college campus and an expanded library branch on West Capitol Avenue near Merkley. But El-Bdour believes it will be a reality in two or three years.

Bullets interrupt party: one dead

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

One man is in custody and at least one more still in the hospital after a shooting that left a 19-year old dead Saturday night in West Sacramento. Shots were fired during at the I.L.W.U. labor hall on 6th Street during a Quinceanera – a traditional Latino celebration in honor of a girl's "coming of age" on her 15th birthday.

Lieutenant Dave Farmer said that most – perhaps all – of those attending the party at the rented hall were from Sacramento.

At about 10:10 p.m. on Saturday, he said, neighbors reported hearing gunshots and seeing people run from the union hall near the Tower and I Street bridges. Responding police found 19-year old Marcos Estrada, Jr., of Sacramento, dead at the scene. A 28-year old was taken to the Sacramento Medical Center for treatment of a shoulder wound.

Witnesses told police that "eight uninvited males wearing blue clothing" had entered the building and a fight started that involved the two victims (blue is a color associated with a gang). Farmer said it was yet unclear how many people fired weapons when the shooting transpired.

"After the shooting occurred, a white Chevrolet Suburban was seen (by witnesses) leaving the area," he added. "We put that out over a broadcast to Sacramento P.D. and Sacramento County and outlying areas."

One of the suspects inside the Suburban had been shot.

"He had a gunshot wound and was bleeding pretty heavily from the leg. The vehicle pulled into a gas station on Del Paso Road. The driver went in and called 911 for medical aid. Sacramento police responded and saw the vehicle matched the description, and detained the driver and made arrangements to get the wounded subject medical treatment by ambulance."

Other suspects were gone when Sacramento police arrived.

The arrested man was Jorge Luis Zavala-Garcia, a 20-year old Sacramento. An arrest report says Zavala-Garcia admitted belonging to a gang after he was arrested. Identities for the man found wounded at the union hall and the man in the Suburban were

The invasive 'Japanese dodder,' shown here blanketing a shrub, has vibrant color and spaghetti-thick stems

Yolo County Agriculture Department officials have confirmed the presence of an infestation of Japanese dodder (Cuscuta japonica) in Yolo County which was found late last week on the eastern side of the county. A vibrant yellow-orange to yellow-green vine, Japanese dodder is an exotic, potentially invasive parasitic vine recently introduced to California. Japanese dodder has robust twining stems that are leafless and stout, comparable in size to cooked spaghetti (a native form of "dodder" has much thinner stems).

It can grow up to six inches per day and reproduces vegetatively (through stem fragments) and seeds. Japanese dodder is likely to be found near roads and freeways and hosts include fruit trees and ornamental shrubs. To date, infestations have also been found in Contra Costa, Shasta, Yuba, Sacramento and Los Angeles counties.

"Infestations of Japanese dodder are typically large, entirely covering shrubs or trees," said Rick Landon, Yolo County Agricultural Commissioner. "Our field staff and Yolo County roads crew have been trained to recognize this noxious weed in an effort to prevent further spread."

Questions and concerns regarding Japanese dodder can be referred to the Yolo County Agriculture Department at (530) 666-8140.

Joke of the week: In a small town there were two brothers who, over the course of many years, cheated, swindled, robbed and generally stole from everyone that they ever did business with, and because of that, the entire town and surrounding community reviled and despised them. Then one day, one of the brothers up and died. Although they had never attended church, the one remaining brother went to the local pastor and offered vast sums of money to the church if he would preside over the funeral and say some appropriate words over his dead brother, but only if sometime during the course of the eulogy, the pastor referred to him as a saint.

The pastor was deeply troubled by the request, however, his church was very poor and in desperate need of many repairs. The parishioners heard of their pastor's dilemma and were very curious as to what he would do. So when the funeral began, the church was packed, and the pastor started with the usual prayers and traditional rites. Then in closing, he paused, turned to face the remaining brother, and said, "As you know, the departed was an awful individual who robbed, cheated, swindled and stole from everyone in town. However, compared to his brother, he was a saint!"

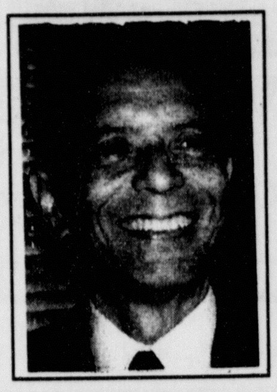
SPORTS

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa



By Richard Novoa

Building huge and expensive stadiums is the big news in Northern California this week with the Kings and 49ers negotiating with the powers to be to finance their dream homes. League officials from the NFL and NBA have been working overtime behind the scenes to finalize and broker back room deals.

The Maloofs, with assistances and guidance of NBA lawyer Harvey Benjamin, are at the bargaining table with County Supervisor Roger Dickinson and team of Sacramento City council officials that includes consultant Dan Barrett to hammer out a deal to build and finance the proposed $500 million downtown arena.

Of course the main stumbling block is who is going to pay the bulk of the costs to build the half a billion-dollar facility. The Kings owe $71 million to the city and that loan would be paid off as part of the deal. However the big question that needs to be resolved is how much will the Maloof's contribute to the project?

The city wants the Joe and Gavin (Maloof Sports & Entertainment) to foot about 20 to 25% percent of the bill. If both parties agree to terms look for a heated battle at the polls in November with the taxpayers making the final decision in overtime!

In San Francisco, the folks in 49er country are going through the same situation with the Niners and their old (Candlestick, 3-Com, Monster) park. The proposed stadium would cost taxpayers roughly $700 million. The new home for the 49ers would increase the Bay Area's chances to bid for the 2016 Olympic games, Super Bowls and maybe the World Cup!

Korner Kicks

The Copa Tecate tournament kicked off in March 2006 in local markets nationwide but the regional final games will be played on July 28th in Sacramento with the winners playing the preliminary game before the Cruz Azul vs Monterrey Soccer game at Raley Field on Sunday, July 30th.

The two first division professional Mexican teams will square off in the first professional soccer game in West Sacramento history. Get your tickets early for the Copa Tecate Soccer Fiesta at Raley Field on Sunday, July 30th. Tickets are $20 in advance and $30 at the door!

On the local soccer pitch, the Sacramento Knights won their first round playoff game 5-1 against the San Jose Frogs last Saturday night at Consumes River College. At press time the Knights were waiting for league official to decide if the conference title game would be held in Sacramento or in Albuquerque this Saturday night. Unfortunately, the traveling team will be the loser even if they win the game after incurring massive travel costs!

Diamond Notes

The Giants (46-47) are lucky to be only 3 ½ games back of the Padres in a weak division that is up for grabs. Look for the G-men to make a trade before the July 31st deadline to booster their aging roster. Also, to add insult to injury the Giants may loose Mr. Bonds for a few weeks to allow the home run king to resolve his legal issues.

Across the bay the A's (48-45) are using smoke and mirrors to stay ahead of the Angels and Rangers with only one game separating the three teams. Former River Cats pitcher, Jason Windsor, celebrated his 24th birthday by making is professional debut on Monday night in Baltimore. The A's lost the game but the youngster threw 5 impressive innings giving up 3 runs while striking out 3 in a no-decision outing. Also, the A's shipped first baseman, Dan Johnson, back to Sacramento to work on his batting stroke.

Speaking of the River Gatos, the Boys from West Sac, who are on the road this week, were rained out Monday night in Colorado Springs after coming off a four-game sweep of the Salt Lake Bees at Raley Field. The Cats pounded Bees pitching scoring 29 runs while only allowing 8 runs.

Newly arrived Dan Johnson along with Scott McClain and Nate Espy led the Sacramento offense, each with three hits and a home run and a total of 8 RBI between them. Espy and Cats catcher John Baker combined to hit back-to-back solo home runs to cap off the night before the fireworks started.

This weekend the A's will play the division leading Tigers in Detroit before they return home to host the Boston Red Sox on Monday, July 24th. The Giants will finish their current home stand with a three game weekend series against San Diego.

Between the Ropes

Boxing returns to the Arco Arena on Thursday night (7:30 p.m.) July 20th featuring Sacramento lightweight Rogelio Castaneda Jr. (22-10-3) and Woodland's junior lightweight Vicente Escobedo (9-1). Also, promoter Don Chargin has added four preliminary bouts to a night of boxing that promises to be very entertaining. Also, West Sacramento's heavyweight sensation, Hector "El Rey" Martinez, who's fresh off his knockout win at Raley Field, will be going after his 5th win on that night in San Jose.

Enjoy your day - see ya next week!

West Sacramento's age 11-12 girls softball team has won the District 6 Championship. On July 7, the squad defeated Rio Linda 22-8. Thenext day, they beat North Natomas 30-0, and beat North Natomas again on July 10 by a score of 30-4 for the district championship. They now head for "sectional" play in Rancho Murieta.

"I assumed they'd take care of my husband. I had no idea how well they'd take care of me."

Ed's death wasn't unexpected. But it was still hard on all of us. Fortunately, Ed had done the preplanning so all the important arrangements were already taken care of. But what surprised me was how much support and attention the funeral home gave me. They reassured me when I had questions, listened to me when I had something to say, and left me alone when I needed time alone. I can't say it was easy. I can't imagine it ever is. But I believe it was as easy as it could be. And for that I'm grateful.

West Sacramento takes on landlord

The City of West Sacramento announced last week had had filed a lawsuit against an Evergreen Circle apartment complex for "maintaining a nuisance and engaging in unfair business practices byu renting substandard housing."

A city press release said that local officials hope to reach a settlement with Harbor Park Apartments, improving living conditions.

"The city does not want to see the residents moved out of their homes, but we're very concerned about the health and welfare of the residents of Harbor Park," Tina Gontarski, director of the city's grants and community investment department, told the News-Ledger.

The 296-unit complex is owned by an investment group controlled by Cameron Razavi.

A phone call to Razavi by the News-Ledger was not returned on Tuesday.

West Sacramento officials say their legal action comes after "numerous" meetings with the property owner and management company.

On Thursday, Yolo County Superior Court issued a temporary restraining order requiring the apartment complex to improve conditions. A hearing is scheduled for August 3.

Strange BUT TRUE

• In a masterpiece of understatement, at the end of World War II, after the cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki had been destroyed by atomic bombs, Japanese Emperor Hirohito commented, "The war situation has developed not necessarily to Japan's advantage."

• America's first motel (a word, by the way, that was derived by combining the words "motor" and "hotel") opened in 1925 in San Luis Obispo, Calif. The cost? Not quite $3 per day. As a sign of how times change, consider this: In 2004, the average cost of a motel/hotel room was $86.24 per day.

• If you were a tourist in ancient Rome, you could rent a chariot to do your sightseeing.

• Here's a rather depressing factoid for you: If you're like the average American, you waste approximately one hour every single day just waiting — standing in elevators, sitting traffic, waiting in lines and on and on and on ...

Letters to the Editor

What a disgrace

After reading the Yolo County Grand Jury report investigation of Washington Unified School District all I can say is what a disgrace. The report reads like a soap opera with conflicts of interest, unethical behavior, over familiar relationships between board members, district staff and legal counsel, ethics violations by the Bond Oversight Committee, financial errors which have brought about huge losses of district funds, and the list goes on and on.

I'm sure this isn't news to the parents who have been demanding accountability for the last year. I've sat in numerous meetings as these issues have been raised and watched parents be treated with disrespect and arrogance while board members and district personnel pushed their personal agendas. Especially disappointing is board member Leland who is actually mentioned in the Grand Jury report for conflict of interest involving her employer Sacramento City College, the mayor and charter schools, and since I have seen for myself the note passing and unprofessional behavior between she and the associate superintendent it seems the over-familiarity section pertains to her also.

It shouldn't come as a surprise, though. This is what we get when board members get elected with developer money. I'm sure the district will do their best to brush the report and its 18 recommendations under the carpet. I'm hoping those parents who have fought so hard to get our district back in order don't let any of them off the hook. Our children deserve better.

Amazing gift

The West Sacramento Senior Center recently received a substantial donation of $45,000 from the estate of Jennie McNeil. Jennie was a participant of the Senior Center and in a variety of aging services activities in West Sacramento for over 20 years. Her heart, spirit and dedication to the aging population of the community will be remembered forever. Her generous gift will be used according to her last wishes and be set aside to help fund the development of a future multigenerational center for the community. She will have a plaque to commemorate and recognize her contribution at the facility set to open in a couple of years.

Thoughts on prisons

The haves vs. the have-nots. Not only is our middle class shrinking, the wealthiest are monetarily richer and more poor folks find it harder to earn a living wage. More of the down-and-outer turn to crime, making our society less safe and costing the rest of us much more to build and maintain more prisons. And even though our state closed most of its mental institutions after 1966, too many of those released were unable to manage their lives, including their finances. Ironically, about half of those incarcerated in jails and prisons today have mental problems, too. Before we simply build more prisons, lets consider the following:

Re-assess inmates and release those in there on minor offenses; re-designate some prisons and former California Youth Authority facilities as mental institutions; re-train roughly half our staff to be psychiatric technicians, social workers, etc.; get real about rehabilitation training of inmates; and upon release, instead of just a $200 check, use the welfare-to-work methodology.

Finally, on another subject, with our military spread so thin and our military concentrated in Iraq and Afghanistan, we're not in a strong position to respond to the latest Middle East conflict. Is it time to re-institute our military draft?

Listen to Grand Jury

I would like to welcome the new Superintendent of WUSD, Mr. Lawrence, the new Assistant Superintendent Instruction and Curriculum, Ms. Brothers, and the new RCHS Principal, Mr. MacKay. There are many other new employees to welcome into our school district but I am only familiar with the above mentioned. They all are starting with a lot on their plates and it will take everyone's participation to see our district move forward.

After talking with all three of them, there appears to be light at the end of a very dark tunnel but we can't just sweep all that has happened in the past year under the carpet. We must address and correct the many issues and violations of the law that have happened. Between the FCMAT (Fiscal Crisis Management Assistance Team) and the Yolo County Grand Jury Reports, we have a good basis of where to start to begin the process.

The Grand Jury Report was not "just a slap on the wrist" as reported in one newspaper. It's amazing how the Yolo County Grand Jury Report reiterates the FCMAT and both reports have the same tone with the heavy disfunction, incorrect procedures, and policy violations. The FCMAT report really exposes the power struggle and mismanagement in our Human Resources as well as the fact that our Business Service department doesn't have a clear set of guidelines and procedures that should be being followed. It's good to know that some governmental entities still believe it is illegal to violate laws such as the Brown Act and conflict of interest.

I'm glad to see that the Grand Jury apparently feels we should more closely monitor expenditures such as the ASB funds, building of the new high school as well as vendors "bearing" gifts. Hopefully these two reports have gotten the attention of our district administrators and Board so healthy changes can be put in place to get our district on the right track and we can finally move things forward. As I stated to the Board at the meeting, after over a year of staff, parents, community members and students making statements to the Board and writing letters to the local papers, it's gratifying to know someone listened since all we ever get from most of the Board is the glazed over glassy eyed stare.

As I stated to the Board, we need to take the Grand Jury Report serious, correct the violations, put procedures and policies in place that aren't currently in place and do things in a ethical, transparent way. As I reminded the two Board members that felt they've done nothing wrong to violate the communities trust and don't deserve the unfair criticism, it has been their own words that have violated the trust of members of the community. It has been the "behind the scenes" actions taken by some that has put doubt in their true intentions.

I also pointed out to the Board, if they choose to ignore and not respond in a proper way to the Grand Jury, maybe they should contact the Housing Authority and find out how that road has worked for them. I don't think the Grand Jury thinks highly of respondents to their investigations thumbing their noses at their recommendations.

CRITIC'S CORNER
By D.N.A Smith

"Superman Returns"

Running time: 2 hours, 37 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

It's been nearly 20 years since The Man of Steel graced the silver screen: Just in time for the Christopher Reeve generation to begin waxing nostalgic for the series and for a new generation to rediscover Big Blue.

Bryan ("X-Men") Singer does his best in trying to please both camps with "Superman Returns," a slightly uneven affair that spends a little too much time paying homage to Christopher Reeve and Richard Donner's 1978 film — even to the point of re-creating the Flying Title Sequence for the opening credits.

The film stars Brandon Routh as Superman/Clark Kent. I feel sorry for Routh because he is stuck in a damned-if-you-do, damned-if-you-don't situation.

Because the movie places the plot within the timeline of the first two Christopher Reeve films, Routh is forced to somehow embody the character choices made by the late actor, while at the same time attempt to add his own stamp to the role.

The result is what you would expect from this kind of tug-of-war: Routh goes nowhere with the part. He has few lines as Clark Kent and even fewer as Superman. He has no chance to do anything but look good in that ridiculous costume. (Why they needed to "reinvent" the style of the suit is beyond me.)

Still, I give Routh an "A" for effort and hope that the sequel will allow him the freedom to relax and make the character his own.

The story, however, isn't that great and is the biggest weakness of the film. Superman has been gone for five years, and when he returns to Earth his world has changed drastically. The biggest change is that Lois Lane (Kate Bosworth) has had a son and is living with one of her co-workers, Richard (James Marsden).

Lex Luthor (Kevin Spacey) is out of prison, and he is once again pursuing a profoundly stupid real-estate scheme (just like Gene Hackman's Luthor in "Superman: The Movie").

Thankfully, the film doesn't dwell too much on the Lex Luthor stuff. It really is the weakest part of the film, although Spacey's Luthor is a lot less campy and more ruthless than Hackman's.

Kate Bosworth, Brandon Routh

No, the lion's share of this two-and-a-half hour movie is spent dealing with the soap opera between Lois, Clark, Richard and The Kid Who May Be Superman's Son.

Snore

There's maybe a good half-hour of action scenes, and they're done pretty well. But to tell the truth, I got more goosebumps watching the opening credits than I did watching the film's major setpiece of Superman rescuing a jumbo jet.

I'm giving "Superman Returns" a much higher grade than I think it deserves, mostly on the hope that Singer & Co. had a tough job overcoming all the nostalgia associated with the Reeve films. Let's hope the sequel(s) fare better.

CELEBRITY extra

by Cindy Elavsky

Q. I am completely hooked on NBC's new show "Windfall." I was especially happy to see Luke Perry as one of the cast members. It got me wondering what some of his former "90210" co-stars have been up to lately. — Anonymous

A. Jason Priestley (Brandon Walsh) was racing cars, but gave it up after a near-fatal accident in 2002. He recently co-starred on the now-defunct show "Love Monkey" with Thomas Cavanagh.

Shannen Doherty (Brenda Walsh) became notorious for a string of failed relationships, B-movies and run-ins with the law. She was most recently seen in the TV movie "Category 7: The End of the World."

Jennie Garth (Kelly Taylor) married actor Peter Facinelli and enjoyed a starring role for four seasons on the WB's "What I Like About You" with Amanda Bynes. She is currently pregnant with her third child.

Tori Spelling (Donna Martin) almost completely slipped off the radar screens until her recent resurgence in the news with her marriage, divorce, remarriage, VH1 show "So NoTORIous" and then the death of her media-mogul father, Aaron Spelling.

Q. I recently watched "Mommie Dearest" and was wondering who ended up with Joan Crawford's estate, since it didn't go to her oldest children (Christopher and Christina). — Mark A., Lyman, S.C.

A. As stated in her will, which was drawn on Oct. 28, 1976, Crawford divided her estate fairly evenly, with adopted daughters Cathy and Cynthia the main benefactors, as well as any children that Cathy and/or Cynthia might have in the future. Crawford bequeathed sums of money to long-time personal secretary Betty Barker and makeup artist Monty Westmore, among others, as well as various charities. But it was Item 10 that struck me the most: "It is my intention to make no provision herein for my son

Andy Griffith, Ron Howard

Christopher or my daughter Christina for reasons which are well known to them."

Q. My husband and I love watching re-runs of "The Andy Griffith Show," but I've always wondered what happened to Sheriff Taylor's wife and Opie's mother. Was the subject ever brought up on the show? — Teresa, via e-mail

A. When the show began, Sheriff Andy Taylor (Griffith) was a widower who was raising his young son, Opie (Ron Howard), with the help of the family housekeeper. However, in the first episode, Andy, acting as justice of the peace, married off his housekeeper to her fiance. Her departure left Andy to care for Opie, and the house, on his own. In comes Andy's Aunt Bee — who also acted as a surrogate aunt for the rest of townsfolk of Mayberry, N.C. — to help Andy with the household.

The circumstances surrounding the death of Sheriff Taylor's wife were never explained, although she is mentioned in the episode "A Wife for Andy," in which schoolteacher Helen Crump is introduced as Andy's love interest.

Now here's a tip!
by Jo Ann Derson

- "Add a few drops of water to votive holders before adding a candle. The wax will float on the water, and when the candle burns down, it won't get stuck in the votive glass." — O.J. in Wyoming
- "I keep a pack of Post-it notes in my purse at all times. They come in handy for so many things. I recently found a mini pen on a key ring that is wonderfully useful as well. I combined the two with a hole punch. I punched holes through manageable sections of a notepad and put the pen's key ring through the holes. Now I always have a handy pen and sticky paper at my disposal." — N.G. in Missouri
- "Whenever I make a meal that can be easily frozen, I always make two, freezing one and serving one. There are a lot of nights when I have limited cooking and prep time for dinner, so these premade, homemade meals come in handy often." — P.L. in Florida
- Change your air filter to save money. Be sure to change it once a month to keep your air conditioner working at its most efficient.
- "A great fix for 'traveling bowls' when you have a pet is a rubber mat. Those rubber placemats work really well. Also, they will catch food spills and contain water spills somewhat." — B.D. in California
- To get rid of oil or grease stains on concrete floors, simply brush or wipe off any excess and cover with an absorbent material, like cat litter or cornmeal. Wait for the material to work, usually overnight, and sweep away. Persistent stains might need repeat treatment.

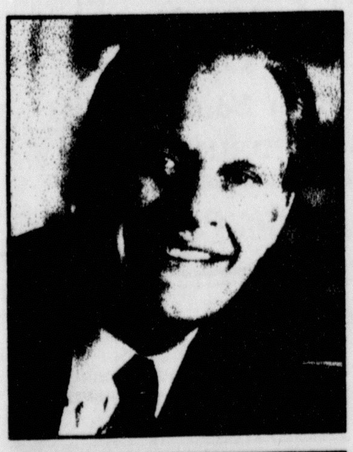
Fave Foods OF THE FAMOUS
by Steven Austin



Ron Popeil

The amazing Ron Popeil has been selling his own products on television for almost 50 years. Everyone knows about the Veg-O-Matic, Mr. Microphone, the Popeil Pocket Fisherman, the Ronco Smokeless Ashtray and, of course, the Showtime Rotisserie & BBQ.

His father was an inventor who sold his products to stores like Sears and Woolworth's. He relied on Ron to help demonstrate them, and before he knew it the young Popeil was making more money in a week than most people earned in several months. When television really caught on in the 1950s, he basically launched the "infomercial" with his unique TV spots, and to this day anyone who successfully sells a product on the tube owes at least a small debt of gratitude to this groundbreaking inventor. Read about him in his book, "The Salesman of the Century," and find out more at: www.ronco.com

Name the food-preparation item or machine you wish you had invented first, and why?

"The blender, because of all the different things you can do with it!"

When you entertain at home, what particular dishes do your friends always look forward to?

"All the homemade dishes I learned from my grandmother, such as chicken fricassee — with necks, feet, tomato broth, gizzards and hearts — and Hungarian-style sweet-and-sour rolled cabbage."

In addition to having your products on hand, what are three essentials every kitchen must have?

"A microwave, a gas-operated stove and a great set of knives."

When dining out, are you particularly critical of what you eat and how it's prepared, or do you just relax and enjoy it?

"Yes, I am particular. Quality of food comes first, ambience and price come last."

Give us a story of how you were inspired to create a product?

"People were lining up in Costco and at supermarkets to buy rotisserie chickens. I noticed all the juices and renderings were at the bottom of the container that was holding the chicken. I concluded that people love the chicken but after taking it home it was too dry, and it was sitting in all the juices because gravity causes the juice in the chicken to sink to the bottom. Voila! Give them the ability to make their own chicken at home so they can eat it before the juices sank to the bottom."

JAMAICAN JERK PORK TENDERLOIN
(for the Showtime Rotisserie & BBQ)

- 1 tablespoon finely minced fresh ginger
- 1/4 cup dark rum
- 2 tablespoons fresh lime juice
- 2 tablespoons Bertolli olive oil
- 2 tablespoons light brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne
- 1/4 teaspoon ground allspice
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 pork tenderloins (about 1-1/2 to 2 pounds total)

Combine all ingredients except the pork in a flat baking dish. Reserve 1/3 of the marinade and set in the Food Heater in the lower position. Trim all fat and silver skin from the pork tenderloins and place in the marinade. Turn to coat well. Cover and marinate for 15 to 30 minutes at room temperature. Place the pork, one on each Spit Rod in the Rotisserie for 30 minutes, basting with the marinating juices often during the last 10 minutes, or until the internal temperature reaches 160 F on the instant thermometer. Slice the pork on the diagonal, place on a serving platter, and spoon reserved marinade over the pork slices and serve. Serves 4.

Glamorous Disasters
by Eliot Schrefer
(Simon & Schuster, $23.95)
Reviewed by Ealish Waddell

Noah is a self-made sort of guy, a boy from the sticks who got himself through Princeton on his own hard work and determination. But it also left him with massive student-loan debt, and now he is squeaking by in the big city, toiling as an SAT tutor to kids at the other end of the spectrum: the scions of wealthy and privileged upper-class Manhattan.

At the opening of the novel, Noah enters the Thayer household as a tutor to Dylan, a spoiled Golden Boy who nevertheless seems to lack any ounce of common sense. Soon he is also teaching Dylan's sister Tuscany, a sultry yet naive 15-year-old whose unwillingness to challenge herself hides a bright, ambitious mind.

Noah is no starry-eyed idealist — he knows good test scores are his paycheck — but he still takes his mentoring duties seriously, hoping to unearth some hidden spark in the Thayers. Oddly enough, however, his biggest obstacle proves to be his pupils' mercurial mother, who is determined that her children get the results they need regardless of whether they actually deserve them.

This engaging story, fictional but based on real experiences, will no doubt endure countless comparisons to "The Nanny Diaries," but there is at least one substantial difference: Noah's kids are teens, and their daily life is worlds apart from the playground and juice-box set.

The Thayers, young though they are, swirl through a world of clubs, drugs, alcohol and sex so labyrinthine that Noah himself could never keep up. It's a realistic, though somewhat frightening, look at the society these kids are expected to inhabit long before they have the character and morality for it. Noah tries to help, but he doesn't have all the answers either, and in the end he can only teach — it is up to the kids to make of his lessons what they will.

THE YOLO INDEPENDENT — FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3, 191[illegible]

YOLO CAPITAL MUST COMBINE TO RETAIN VIRDEN PACKING PLANT AND UNION STOCK YARDS

CITY AUTHORITIES OF SACRAMENTO ARE ABOUT TO START CAMPAIGN TO SECURE PLANT WITHIN CITY LIMITS

City Commissioner John J. Brown of Sacramento has issued for publication notice that a concertted action will be taken immediately to secure the Virden Packing Plant for the city.

Up until the present time there have been rumors that the packing plant and stockyards would be located in the "pocket" district of Sacramento County, and the residents of that distirct have contributed liberally for stock in the corporation and have even offered a free site consisting of 100 acres for the plant.

Several months ago when the corporation was first started the announcement was made that the plant would be located in West Sacramento.

For some unknown reason the capitalists of Yolo County have been lax in contributing for stock in the packing company and on that account the rumor was started that the plant would be located in the "pocket" district.

No matter where the plant may be located it will be of great benefit to the surrounding territory. Not alone will it benefit the stock raisers but it will benefit the produce raisers, for canning is to be pursued to a great extent in the plant.

The varied industries that will be housed in the plant will be of material benefit to the producers in the vicinity and must be in close touch with the locality where those products are raised.

Time and again The Independent has advanced the reasons for locating plant in West Sacramento. It is not necessary to do so again here. One thing this paper would urge that the capitalists of Yolo County must contribute more liberally to the success of the proposal if the plant is to be retained.

And the efforts of Commissioner Brown must have some offset in order to secure the plant.

There is more spare capital today in Yolo County than any county in the State, and there is not a single valid reason why those who can afford to subscribe for stock should not do so.

Undoubtedly the plant will be a success because precedent has shown that wherever a stock yard and packing plant was established it was succesful. The history of all similar concerns has been success.

It is to be feared that the efforts of Mr. Brown may result in nought. Naturally there will be more or less orod emanating from the plant at all times because of the reduction processes that will be pursued there.

Cranks in Sacramento forced the Standard Oil Company outside the city limits some time ago, and cranks have forced other plants outside the city limits of Sacramento.

In the case of the Virden Packing Company the action of cranks is to be feared again for Sacramento.

Yolo County will welcome the Virden Packing Company and in addition offers the best site with lots of available transportation by rail or water, items that must be considered in establishing this plant anywhere.

It is understood that the Yolo Board of Supervisors and other Yolo authorities are about to consider means and ways to promote the sale of Virden Packing stock so that this inducement may prompt the establishment of the concern in West Sacramento.

RIVERBANK SCHOOL CONTRACT TO BE LET SOON

On October 5th bids will be opened by the Riverbank School Trustees for the construction of an additional room to the school building.

The plans and specifications are complete and several bids have already been received.

Some time ago the voters of the district favorably passed the bonds in the amount of $4500.

The work when completed will also include an automatic water supply for the school building and grounds.

When the Riverbank school was built three years ago it was estimated that the building would be large enough for several years.

The growth of the community has been so steadfast, however, that the addition above mentioned has become absolutely imperative.

RICE BUYER KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT WEST OF TOWN

Edward T. Johnson, a salesman of 42 Prospect street, San Francisco, was killed last Friday evening when an automobile in which he and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Doty of Biggs and Mrs. Doty's mother, Mrs. Smith, were riding. The accident occurred near the Yolo causeway, between Sacramento and Davis. Doty, who was driving, lost control of the car and it swerved into the ditch. Johnson was pinned beneath the rear seat of the car and sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Mrs. Alden Anderson of Sacramento, who came along a short time after the accident occurred, was signaled by Doty and she stopped and assisted him in extricating Johnson from beneath the overturned machine. The injured man was still conscious and hope was held for his life. He was rushed by Mrs. Anderson to the White Hospital in Sacramento, but he expired a short time after reaching there.

The party were traveling to Biggs from Sausalito and Johnson was showing them the route.

The deceased had a wife and three children who live in San Francisco.

Neighborhoods throughout West Sacramento are invited to host block parties, cookouts, ice cream socials and other fun activities that evening. The West Sacramento Police Department, partnering with the fire department, CHP, Marines and other organizations would be happy to visit your block party. To sign up or for more information, call CSO Nora McDowell at the police department, 617-4937.

Help a child

Learn how to help an abused, neglected or abandoned child in Yolo County: consider becoming a Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA). As a volunteer, you can help a kid who otherwise might be "lost" in the foster system or court system. Volunteers spend about 3-5 hours per week with a child for at least 18 months. Call (530) 661-4200 or email volunteer@yolocasa.org for information on an upcoming information session (one session begins July 25). Visit www.yolocasa.org.

New moms wanted

The Yolo Community Breast Feeding Coalition wants new mothers to participate in a survey about their experiences feeding their infants. The "Mommy and Me Assessment" (MAMA) is available at doctors' offices and clinics county-wide, including Salud Clinic in West Sacramento and other Yolo and Sacramento locations. English or Spanish. The survey is brief and women will be given a "thank you" gift card for participating. Program sponsor is First 5 Yolo, www.yolochildren.org.

Borrow a stadium

Your nonprofit group can use Raley Field for a day, sometime between March 1 and Oct. 31 next year. Contac the West Sacramento Parks & Recreation Department, 617-4620, or email parks@cityofwestsacramento.org. Applications accepted until Dec. 29.

Aging & family

The West Sacramento Senior Center has arranged for cable-cast of "Full Circle," a 30-minute documentary on the effects of aging upon family life. Closed-captioned, playing daily on Charter Cable channel 21 at 6:30 & 11:30 p.m.

Festival

Holy Cross Parish invites you to its annual festival, featuring music, food booths, game booths and a raffle, from noon to 10 p.m. on Sat., Aug. 5, and from noon to 7 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 6. "Fun for the whole family."

Mini-grants

West Sacramento nonprofit organizations may apply for part of $20,000 available from the City of West Sacramento. Deadlines to apply for the "Community Mini-Grant Program" is Oct. 20 at the Parks and Recreation Department, 1110 West Capitol Ave., West Sacramento CA 95691. Pick up an application at the department, or visit the parks department website at www.cityofwestsacramento.org, or call 617-4620.

Free legal help

A group of attorneys working with Legal Services of Northern California is offering free, bi-weekly drop-in law help for low-income people. It will be held Wednesday evenings from 6-8 p.m. at the civic center, 1110 West Capitol Avenue. Subject matter includes housing, employment, public benefits and estate planning/probate. The first clinic will be held on July 19.

Interfaith potluck

A potluck and forum is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on Wed., July 26, for those interested in learning more about the faith traditions in West Sacramento. Panelists will address "What is your most precious value and how do you know it?," with questions and answers to follow. The meeting will be at the Center for Spiritual Awareness, 1020 West Capitol Avenue. Call 798-8724.

Independent learning

Students in 7th through 12th grades pursuing a high school diploma, earning credits towards a G.E.D., or who wish to be involved in an academic support program may apply for a new independent study program provided by Sierra Innovations Services, a public school charter, at the Collings Teen Center. A program is also available to help those who have not passed the state high school exit exam. Free. Call the teen center, 375-0681.

Retire that flag

Raley's stores will partner with American Legion Post 447 and Amerit to provide a way to respectfully retire worn or torn American flags. Customers may bring their old flags to any Raley's store or other member of the chain (there is a Raley's near West Capitol and Westacre in West Sacramento). The program lasts through Sept. 4. Flag etiquette sheets will also be available on site.

Old computers

Donate your surplus computers for charity. You can drop off a computer (minimum: Pentium II, 250 megaherz, a mouse, mouse pad, keyboard, or cash) at the teen center on Merkley Avenue next to the post office. The "Computers4Kids" program is a collaboration of the teen center, Chamber of Commerce, school district, county office of education, city college and local businesses. Equipment may help local schoolkids or businesses. Call Lewis Bair, 916-806-6447, to schedule a drop-off appointment. Donations may be tax-deductible.

Winning photos

View the winning photographs from the city's "15 Days in May" photo contest through July 28 at the Arthur F. Turner Library Branch, 1212 Merkley Avenue. The exhibit will move to the Yolo County Fair from Aug. 16-20.

Making sure food is kept hot -- just one duty of health dept.

By Beth Gabor, Yolo County Public Information Officer & Kimberly Bellows, UC Davis Intern

Ever wonder who makes sure the local restaurants you eat in are sanitary? Ever wonder who is called when there is a hazardous chemical spill, or who regulates swimming pool depth? That would be the Environmental Health Division of the Yolo County Health Department. This division of 21 professional employees oversees the health and safety of our everyday environments. Their mission is to protect public health and keep Yolo County citizens safe from environmental hazards. You can find these specialists out in the field testing the temperature of food in delis, checking the pH and chlorine levels in public pools and spas, and inspecting local tattoo parlors for proper protocol and sterilization of equipment.

As evident from the above descriptions, the Environmental Health division provides a wide and varied array of services. Of particular note are their pollution control and environmental protection services. The division inspects handling procedures of hazardous materials at over 1,000 facilities that transport, use, store and/or dispose of hazardous chemicals. Environmental teams use analytical equipment to determine the chemical make up of spills so they can advise first responders of the situation, such as the Fire Department, thus providing them with life-saving information and ensuring the environment is ultimately returned to a safe condition. Environmental Health also regulates solid waste, inspecting landfills and garbage collection to ensure waste is not threatening public health.

In addition, the Environmental Health division responds to biological and chemical emergencies, helping to contain and treat any problems which may arise. Recently, a drill simulating the detection of the anthrax virus was conducted at the U.S. Postal Service's West Sacramento Processing and Distribution Center to demonstrate the new detection equipment and processes used to decontaminate employees and test public agency emergency response capabilities.

Environmental Health employees also deal with more common occurrences such as animal bites and quarantining animals until a determination is made as to whether the animal could have infected the person attacked. The division investigates over 500 suspected animal bites annually.

"It is sometimes said that you can measure how well an environmental health agency is doing their job by how invisible they are," explains Bruce Sarazin, Environmental Health Program Manager. "Very few people are aware that we are doing our job when we are doing it well."
